Detailed Workbook Answers and Explanations

Providing accurate and well-explained answers to workbook questions is essential for mastering chapter content. Below are examples of common workbook questions paired with detailed answers to illustrate the level of detail required.

Example Question 1: Describe the three layers of the hair strand.

Answer: The hair strand consists of three layers: the cuticle, cortex, and medulla. The cuticle is the outermost protective layer made of overlapping scales. The cortex lies beneath the cuticle and contains keratin fibers and pigment responsible for hair strength, elasticity, and color. The medulla is the innermost core, which may be absent in fine hair.

Example Question 2: What are the phases of the hair growth cycle?

Answer: The hair growth cycle consists of three phases: anagen, catagen, and telogen. Anagen is the active growth phase lasting several years. Catagen is a brief transitional phase where hair growth slows. Telogen is the resting phase lasting a few months before the hair falls out and is replaced.

Example Question 3: How should a cosmetologist handle a client with scalp psoriasis?

Answer: A cosmetologist should avoid aggressive scalp treatments and recommend gentle cleansing and moisturizing products. It is important to refer the client to a dermatologist for medical treatment, as psoriasis is a medical condition requiring professional care.
