For Level A, common hurdles can include distinguishing between words that sound similar but have different meanings, or correctly using new words in spoken and written communication. Strategies to overcome these challenges include:

- Spaced Repetition: Regularly revisiting words over increasing intervals helps to move them from short-term to long-term memory.
- Contextual Learning: Encouraging students to see and use words in sentences and real-world situations rather than isolated lists.
- Active Recall: Instead of just rereading, students should actively try to recall word meanings and usage.
- Visual Aids: Using images, drawings, or even short videos to associate with vocabulary words can enhance memory.
- Meaningful Practice: Engaging in activities that require the application of new words in creative ways, such as writing stories or role-playing.
