Contents and Canonical Books

The CTS New Catholic Bible includes the full Catholic canon, which comprises

73 books:

- 46 books in the Old Testament, including the Deuterocanonical books such as Tobit, Judith, Wisdom, Sirach, Baruch, and 1 and 2 Maccabees

This comprehensive canon ensures readers have access to the complete scriptural foundation of Catholic teaching and tradition.

Translation and Textual Basis

The translation philosophy behind the CTS New Catholic Bible is rooted in both accuracy and clarity. The translators aimed to deliver a text that is faithful to the original Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek manuscripts while using language that is understandable for contemporary readers.

The textual basis draws on critical editions of the biblical texts, including the Nova Vulgata and the original language manuscripts. This ensures alignment with Church tradition and magisterial guidance. The translation approach balances formal equivalence (word-for-word) with dynamic equivalence (thought-for-thought) to preserve meaning and readability.

Comparison to Other Catholic Bibles

Compared to earlier Catholic Bible translations such as the Douay-Rheims or the New American Bible, the CTS New Catholic Bible offers:
