Types of Questions in the Assessment

The United Health Group assessment test comprises various question types tailored to evaluate different skill sets. Familiarity with these question formats enables candidates to prepare more effectively and respond with confidence during the actual test.

Numerical Reasoning

Numerical reasoning questions assess the ability to interpret, analyze, and draw conclusions from numerical data, such as charts, graphs, and tables. These questions often involve basic arithmetic, percentages, ratios, and data interpretation. Candidates are expected to solve problems quickly and accurately, demonstrating strong quantitative skills.

Candidates may be asked to identify the main idea, infer meaning, or evaluate arguments presented in texts. This section measures language proficiency and the ability to process and analyze information effectively.

Situational Judgment

Situational judgment tests (SJTs) present hypothetical workplace scenarios requiring candidates to choose the most appropriate responses. These questions evaluate decision-making, ethical reasoning, and interpersonal skills. The answers reflect how well candidates align with United Health Group's values and workplace expectations.

Understanding Instructions

Carefully reading and understanding the instructions for each section is essential. Misinterpreting question requirements can lead to incorrect answers. Clarifying the type of response expected helps in selecting the best possible answer.
