Rules for Forming Plural Nouns

Understanding the rules for forming plural nouns is critical to mastering singular and plural noun usage. Worksheets often include explicit instruction and practice related to these rules to ensure students internalize the patterns and exceptions.

Regular Plural Formation Rules

For most nouns, the plural is formed by simply adding an -s to the singular form, such as cat becoming cats. When a noun ends in -s, -x, -z, -ch, or -sh, the plural is formed by adding -es, as in box to boxes.

Nouns Ending in -y

If a noun ends with a consonant followed by -y, the -y changes to -ies in the plural form, e.g., puppy becomes puppies. However, if the noun ends in a vowel plus -y, simply add -s, such as key to keys.

Irregular Plural Nouns

Some nouns do not follow standard pluralization rules and have irregular plural forms. Examples include child to children, mouse to mice, and man to men. Worksheets often emphasize these exceptions to help students memorize and apply them correctly.

Unchanging Plural Nouns

Certain nouns have identical singular and plural forms, such as sheep and deer. Recognizing these unchanging plurals is important for accurate language use.

Plural Forms of Compound Nouns

Compound nouns form plurals by making the main noun plural, as in passerby becoming passersby. Worksheets help students practice these more advanced pluralization rules.
