Understanding the Arizona Civics Test

The Arizona civics test is aligned with the federal naturalization civics test administered by U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS). It evaluates an applicant's knowledge of important aspects of American government, history, and civic duties. During the naturalization interview, applicants must answer questions orally in English, demonstrating both their understanding of civics and their ability to communicate in English. The test typically consists of up to 20 questions, and applicants must correctly answer a minimum number (usually 12) to pass.

Test Format and Administration

The civics test is conducted orally by a USCIS officer during the naturalization interview. The officer will ask up to 20 questions drawn from a standardized list of 128 questions. Applicants can prepare by practicing these questions and answers. The test covers various topics, including the principles of American democracy, rights and responsibilities of citizens, and historical milestones.

Passing Criteria and Retakes

To pass the Arizona civics test, applicants must answer at least 60% of the questions correctly. If the applicant fails the initial test, USCIS allows one retest, typically within 60 to 90 days. Proper az civics test practice is therefore critical to ensure passing on the first attempt.
